Lacey holds lead in DA race

LOS ANGELES - Los Angeles District Attorney Jackie Lacey took a commanding early lead against two criminal justice reformers looking to unseat the two-term career prosecutor but she still may face a November runoff.

Lacey had 50.14% of the vote Thursday morning with about 500,000 ballots still to be counted.

She was trailed by former San Francisco District Attorney George Gascon with 27.22% and ex-public defender Rachel Rossi's 22.6%.

The candidate with more than 50% of votes in the nonpartisan contest wins.

If no one gets a majority, the top two will face a runoff in November.

The winner will oversee the largest prosecutor's office in the U.S., with nearly 1,000 lawyers, and a territory that covers the nation's second-largest city and 10 million residents across the sprawling county.

The event is called the Walk for Water and it's happening this Saturday, March 7, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the Downey High School track.

"Our goal is to have the whole city of Downey walking around the high school track, which means we could fund two wells and bring clean drinking water to people in the developing world from that one day," said Diana Mae Baliscao, the club's president and a senior at Downey High School. "Think about it. Three miles is the average women and children walk for water in the developing world just to fetch water that is not even clean, we get to experience walking in their shoes at our walk."

This inspired group of Downey students have been planning and coordinating the Walk for water since the beginning of the school year and have partnered with different schools not only in Downey Unified School District but all over the region. Many parents, teachers, and students will be bused in to attend the Walk for Water.

The Challenge

Downey High School students hold dirty water bottles that were distributed on campus to help promote Saturday's Walk for Water event.

annual Walk for Water will be held at Allen Layne Stadium, in Downey High School. Those who attend the event will have the opportunity to walk 12 laps around the track or less carrying water in either water gallons or jerry cans depending on the participant's ability.

All ages young and old will be able to walk in the shoes of women and children who suffer from water scarcity. Most importantly, participants will be part of raising $24,000 to build two wells in developing countries.

The event will also have fun activities for children, informational booths and water awareness exhibits to bring awareness to the global water crisis.

The group aims to bring awareness to how many people around the world don't have clean water. According to a Downey High School's 2nd report from the World Health Organization and UNICEF, 844 million people don't have access to safe water. That's one of the major factors for diarrhea, which kills 801,000 children each year, says the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

"We are inspired to do this walk because of the staggering number of people who lack access to clean water, a resource we in the United States don't think twice about," said Jordan Guerrero, senior at Downey High School.

The cost to participate in the Walk for Water is $25 for adults and $10 for DUSD stuents with ID. Kids ages 4 and younger are free.

Pre-registration is available online at my.thirstproject.org/ event/downey-walk-for-water/ e254594

Archuleta named Legislator of the Year

DOWNEY - State Sen. Bob Archuleta has been named Legislator of the Year for 2019 by the California State Commanders Veterans Council.

The award is given in recognition for leadership and efforts on behalf of California's veterans, active duty military, reserves, and the California National Guard.

Archuleta, who represents Downey in the state legislature, will be presented the award at the state Capitol on April 22.

"It is an honor for me to receive this recognition from the California State Commanders Veterans Council. I will continue to work with all veterans and active military in the state of California to represent them to the best of my ability," Archuleta said. "I will continue working with my colleagues and the governor's office on veterans' homelessness, as well as issues pertaining to our active military and our 22 armed force bases in California."

Archuleta authored Senate Bill 289 in 2019, which was signed by Gov. Gavin Newsom. SB 289 allows active duty service members, upon receiving orders to transfer out of state, to maintain their eligibility status or their place on the waiting list for services.

This bill would also allow military personnel and their families to apply for the Medicaid HCBS waiver program when they receive notification of their pending transfer into the state.

Elected in 2018, Archuleta is an Army veteran and was a combat paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division. He is the current Chair of the Senate Committee on Veterans Affairs.

"When Senator Archuleta was appointed as the Chairman of Senate Committee on Veterans Affairs, we instinctively knew he would be the right person for the job," said Frederick Romero, chairman of the California State Commanders Veterans Council. "He has captivated us with his intimate knowledge, and unique ability to understand and relate to the active duty military and California veterans. He has also shown, through action in his first year, his desire to tackle the tough issues such as the California Veterans Homes and the Disabled Veterans Business Enterprise program."

Archuleta served as a Presidential Appointee under then-President Barack Obama as the first Mexican American to be appointed to the Board of Visitors to the United States Military Academy at West Point, which inquires into the morale, discipline, curriculum, and other matters relating to the academy, and he was immediately elected as co-chair. He also served on the Los Angeles County Military Veteran Affairs Commission and the United States Army Advisory Board for Military Recruitment.

The California State Commanders Veterans Council is a group of 20 veterans service organizations and other military service-related organizations, whose mission is to evaluate pending state legislation affecting California's veterans, whether active, reserve, National Guard, or retired. The Council was founded in 1966 and meets regularly to coordinate legislative strategies to advance veterans issues at the state level.

Downey group honors women leaders

DOWNEY - More than 100 attendees convened last Thursday as part of the "FLEW Empower Hour," a networking event designed for professional women of all ages who are looking to advance their careers while helping other women advance theirs.

The attendees consisted of women in different professions, with a heavy focus on women in the legal, medical, and business professions.

The event was held at the Los Amigos Golf Course Event Center, where attendees enjoyed live jazz music. The attendees were encouraged to network during what organizers called the: "Empower Hour," a segment of the night where women exchanged their business cards and networked with each other.

The goals of the evening were that women attendees would build and expand their networks, that they would seek advice from more experienced women in their respective industry, and that they would provide advice for those women who were starting off in their professions.

The night's honorees included Judge Lucy Armendáriz, who was the "Woman of the Hour." Judge Armendáriz, who sits in the East Los Ángeles Courthouse, spoke about her young life as a foster youth after her mother was convicted and sentenced to life in prison.

The "Breaking Barriers Award" was awarded to accomplished attorney, the Honorable Blanca Pacheco, who was recently sworn in as The City of Downey's first Latina Mayor, with fellow Latina and current Mayor Pro Tem for the City of Downey Claudia Marroquín-Frometa.

Three time Emmy Award winning journalist Fabiola Kramsky delivered the keynote address, where she spoke about her background in journalism and life in the campaign trail as wife to George Gascon, candidate for Los Ángeles County District Attorney.

María Torres, executive director and lead organizer of the event, commented: "We are humbled to share this space with amazing accomplished women, who have not forgotten to keep the door open for the women coming after them! We all thank them for their achievements. We also thank our allies in their supportive roles!"

Downey Unified, U.S. Army partner for Military Career Week

School District, started every day last week by reminding groups at the three DUSD high schools of the vision of Downey Unified: "It is our vision statement that all students graduate with a 21st century education that ensures they are college and career ready, globally competitive and citizens of strong character."

They lived up to that vision last week by providing an opportunity for their students to explore careers available to them by serving in our military, and by thanking their veteran employees and teachers.

Each day last week, Downey High School, Columbus High School and Warren High School started the day with a small gathering of school board members, city officials, teachers, counselors, students and community representatives. They came to honor the district's many veterans and recognize them on behalf of a grateful community. It was all part of Downey Military Career Week hosted by DUSD and the United States Army.

Every district employee or teacher that is a veteran was given a customized shirt with their name and the branch they served in. They were also given a pin signifying their veteran status along with the gratitude of everyone in attendance. They are an example to our students of service and future career opportunities.

DOWNEY - Dr. John Garcia, superintendent of Downey Unified brought to Downey from Fort Knox. It was a chance for our students to see the possibilities of the 150 career jobs available to them in the Army (over 95% translate to civilian occupations).

> Students and counselors were able to discuss careers and scholarships available to our youth. The United States Army is the largest giver of scholarships in the country and also the secondlargest employer.

> DUSD President Donald LaPlante also commented how careers in the military are one of the options for all our students that could provide opportunities and technical training for their futures.

> Former Downey mayor and current Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army, Mario A. Guerra, thanked and complimented DUSD.

> "We are thankful for their vision and giving their students the opportunity to learn about future and potential careers," said Guerra. "While the military is not for everyone, (only three out of 10 graduating seniors countrywide are eligible for Army), every young adult should have the opportunity to explore all careers available to them.

"DUSD has done an amazing job of allowing our students to explore what they may see as opportunities, explore college DUSD students were also able to tour the Army STEM trailer scholarships and career technical education. We are grateful to them and our youth benefit from their vision".

Calvary Chapel High School and St. Pius Matthias Academy were also in attendance, along with representatives of the Air Force and Marines.

St. Pius X - St. Matthias team to run L.A. Marathon

DOWNEY - A team from St. Pius X - St. Matthias Academy will run in Sunday's L.A. Marathon.

The team, comprised of faculty, parents and alumni, and led by Principal Veronica Zozaya, are running in support of the Los Angeles Catholic Education Foundation.

Training for months now, members of the team can be seen most afternoons running the track on the high school's Downey campus.

Joining forces with CEF, who is a featured marathon charity, the motivation behind the team's goal "is simple: children and education."

Every dollar raised directly supports the children of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, helping to make a values-based, Catholic education accessible to all, regardless of income or circumstance.

"We are delighted to participate in the L.A. Marathon as part of CEF's Run for Our Kids Team," said Zozaya. "CEF does so much for so many worthy students, many of them here at PMA, that I am thrilled to join them while at the same time running a marathon that is a school and offers a co-educational college preparatory curriculum. hallmark of the city itself."

Garcia wants more oversight of Contract Cities

DOWNEY - After several reports of inappropriate behavior at events sponsored by the California Contract Cities Association, Assemblymember Cristina Garcia has introduced legislation that will "provide accountability and transparency of taxpayer dollars that flow to associations of local agencies or districts."

"Taxpayers expect their money to be used responsibly and there to be transparency, at the state level and in their local governments. This should extend to these local government lobbying organizations." Continues Garcia, "These groups are extensions of governments and therefore taxpayers themselves – who don't expect governmental activities to result in drunken brawls and mismanagement of funds."

Contract Cities came under scrutiny last May after a fist-fight between two city officials left one person unconscious.

The fight occurred around 12:30 a.m., after the first day of business at the Annual Municipal Seminar, held at the Renaissance Indian Wells Resort & Spa. The meeting agenda included panels on such issues as homelessness, active shooters and government ethics.

There also was plenty of time for relaxation and fun on the taxpayers' dime.

A golf tournament was played before official business started and conference attendees received a welcome bag with a bottle of wine, corkscrew and several tickets for free alcoholic drinks at conferencesponsored events.

This incident with the mismanagement of funds and inappropriate behavior at the Contract Cities event is not unique. Several years ago, the executive director of the California School Boards Association (CSBA) resigned from his position after it was reported that he used a CSBA-issued credit card to get $11,000 in cash from area casinos. Current law does not require financial oversight of these agencies, which could potentially allow taxpayer dollars to be funneled to personal bank accounts or to throw extravagant parties in lavish hotels.

"For local governments and school boards to be bankrolling parties and padding personal bank accounts is a slap in the face to California's residents, who are often working class and struggling to make ends meet," continued Garcia.

AB 2452 will expand on Assembly Bill 187 (Lara, 2011), which established the High-Risk Local Government Agency program within the State Auditor's office to allow audits on local government associations that receive taxpayer dollars to operate.

Currently, the state does not have any direct oversight of the use of taxpayer dollars in local government associations. Should this legislation pass, the State Auditor would have the ability to identify waste, fraud, abuse or mismanagement.

"I look forward to working with all stakeholders to create good government and the responsible use of our taxpayer dollars for California's residents," said Garcia.

The best treatment for coronavirus is paid sick leave

By The New York Times Editorial Board

The Federal Reserve did what it could Tuesday to offset the growing economic impact of the coronavirus by announcing a supersize reduction in its benchmark interest rate — the first time the Fed has acted between its regularly scheduled meetings since the financial crisis in 2008.

But the Fed is ill equipped to limit the effect of a global pandemic alone. Lower interest rates may eventually soothe financial markets and help to hold down borrowing costs, but the Fed can't speed the reopening of Chinese factories or reverse Facebook's decision to cancel an annual developers conference that last year brought 5,000 visitors to San Francisco.

"A rate cut will not reduce the rate of infection. It won't fix a broken supply chain. We get that," Jerome H. Powell, the Fed's chairman, conceded at a news conference on Tuesday.

The real work falls on the rest of the government. The first step should have been simple: ensuring that testing for the coronavirus was readily available and, better yet, free. But even after weeks of lead time for the virus's inevitable arrival, access to testing remains woefully inadequate as the domestic death toll rose to nine on Tuesday

At this point, the crisis also demands unorthodox solutions. To restrict the spread of the coronavirus, the government needs to put limits on commerce. The best way to protect people, and the economy, is to limit economic activity. That is an unfortunate but inescapable truth. Public health officials will need to impose quarantines, businesses will need to cancel meetings. And most of all, the problem now and going forward is making sure that sick workers stay home. That means not forcing employees to choose between penury and working while coughing.

Congress can help by mandating that workers receive paid time off if they fall ill, or if they need to care for an ailing family member. Such a policy is necessary both to impede the spread of the virus and its economic harm. Roughly one-quarter of workers in the private sector — about 32 million people — are not entitled to any paid sick days. Absent legislation, they face a choice between endangering the health of co-workers and customers and calling in sick and losing their wages and perhaps also their jobs.

The current system is practically devised to spread infectious disease. Among the people least likely to have paid sick days, and therefore most likely to work through illness, are low-wage service workers like restaurant employees and home health care aides. (Those workers also are less likely to have health insurance, which compounds the problem.)

Most developed nations require employers to provide some form of paid sick leave, and the United States should do so, too. Some tates already mandate sick leave, and a recent study found that the adoption of such laws reduced cases of influenza by 11 percent in their first year. Whatever the course of the coronavirus, mandatory sick leave for American workers would improve the lives of families and insulate the economy against pandemics.

If Congress cannot bring itself to do the right thing, however, it still could help by mandating sick leave specifically for this coronavirus. A 2013 study of workers in Allegheny County, Pa., estimated that allowing them to take up to two paid "flu days" would have reduced workplace transmission of the flu by roughly 39 percent.

Employers sometimes argue that sick leave policies encourage malingering. But studies show that even accounting for workers who play hooky, society still benefits.

The government could defray the cost of emergency sick leave for employers, for example by allowing businesses to claim a onetime tax credit. There is also a good case for providing broader help, particularly to smaller companies that cannot easily weather a loss of revenue.

The Italian government, for example, announced Sunday that would issue tax credits to businesses that reported declines in revenue of 25 percent or more — in effect shifting the losses from private balance sheets to the government's balance sheet.

Also seeking to help smaller businesses, the Chinese government has announced that banks can defer the receipt of loan payments from smaller companies that were due during the first half of the year without being required to report such loan payments as overdue. In hard-hit Hubei province, the leniency applies to larger companies, too

The Trump administration so far has shown little interest in tailored responses. President Trump reacted to the Fed's announcement by demanding further rate cuts. He has insisted that the United States should have the world's lowest interest rates; the European Central Bank's benchmark rate currently sits below zero, at -0.5 percent.

Mr. Trump also has said that Congress should pass a payroll tax cut.

If the federal government fails to contain the spread of the coronavirus, and the economic outlook darkens, such a broad-based stimulus may well become necessary. But targeted policies - like sick days — are likely to remain the most effective form of response.

Republicans are ready to party like it's 1972

By Larry Elder

After Richard Nixon's landslide 1972 victory over Democratic opponent George McGovern, New Yorker film critic Pauline Kael gave a speech in which she said: "I live in a rather special world. I only know one person who voted for Nixon. Where they are I don't know. They're outside my ken. But sometimes when I'm in a theater I can feel them.

2020 Democrats, at least the sensible ones, find themselves in a full-blown panic over the prospect of a nominee who is outside their ken. How scared are they? About the prospect of Sen. Bernie Sanders leading the Democratic ticket, top Democratic strategist James Carville said: "I'm 75 years old. Why am I here doing this? Because I am scared to death, that's why. Let's get relevant here ... All the Sanders people are taking pictures wishing (British Labour Party leader) Jeremy Corbyn the best. I don't want to go down that path!"

He added: "We've got to decide what we want to be. Do we want to be an ideological cult? Or do we want to have a majoritarian instinct to be a majority party? What we need is power, you understand? That's what this is about. Without power, you have nothing. You just have talking points."

Rational Democratic strategists like Carville find themselves in a full-blown panic over polls showing that a growing number of Democrats prefer Sanders to lead the 2020 Democratic ticket. Even worse for Democrats, Sanders' supporters are either passionate true lieve that Sanders faces electoral disaster believers or do not be do not care as long as his policies are promoted.

built on black support, is watching a severe erosion among those voters. FiveThirtyEight wrote: "In an average of national polls, Biden's support among black voters has dropped about 12 percentage points from before the Iowa caucuses to the post-New Hampshire period. Conversely, during the same period, Bloomberg and Sanders each gained 10 points among black voters. And recent polls show Biden dropping fast among all voters while Sanders and Bloomberg are gaining ground.'

So, Biden is a dead man walking. He looks confused and disoriented. At a recent South Carolina breakfast speech, Biden said: My name's Joe Biden. I'm a Democratic candidate for the United States Senate. Look me over. If you like what you see, help out. If not, vote for the other Biden. Give me a look, though, OK?" Senate? The other Biden? And The Washington Post awarded him four Pinocchios, as bad a rating as it gives, for Biden's recent claim that, when in the Senate, he got arrested for attempting to visit an imprisoned Nelson Mandela in South Africa. Biden also said that, when freed, Mandela thanked Biden for the attempted visit. There is not evidence for either claim.

His argument has always been "electability," yet he cannot win a caucus or primary in his own party. A third of Americans disapprove of gay marriage, making the prospects of a Buttigieg nomination unlikely, quite apart from his thin resume as a mayor of a small town. Mike Bloomberg cannot win the nomination of a party where so many despise billionaires and would not, under any circumstances, vote for

Protect capitalism

Dear Editor:

Last time that I looked, the US was a capitalistic country. That is why I was shocked to see that 5 of the 6 Democratic candidates that debated last week in Las Vegas had never started a business or had to meet a payroll.

Hence they have no concept of what capitalism is all about and they tried to outdo each other in expressing their Robin Hood philosophy, steal from the rich to give to the poor. They have realized that is very easy to be generous with some body else's money.

Perhaps it is time to change the election laws and require from any candidate for President to have five years of experience starting and running a business. So that they can not be bought, they should also have at least a modest estate; i.e. one that will not pay estate taxes. (Inherited wealth would not count. Sorry Donald.)

We are in trouble if any of the five candidates mentioned herein makes it as the Democratic nominee. No one in his right capitalist mind will vote for him and the other choice is not very appealing either

God bless the US and send us a candidate that understands capitalism and is willing to fight for its survival.

Bloomberg's jealousy

Trump enjoys a 94% approval rating among Republicans, but Democrats split their support between the Bernie Sanders/Elizabeth Warren hard-left wing of the party and the so-called moderates. The percentage of the Iowa vote captured by Sanders and Warren came to 44%. But the percentage of the votes received by Pete Buttigieg, Amy Klobuchar and Joe Biden comes to 54%. Similarly, New Hampshire saw Buttigieg/Klobuchar/Biden getting 53%, with the Sanders/Warren vote fetching 35%. In the Nevada caucus, Sanders did even better, capturing almost 47% of the vote, but the combined percentage of the Biden/Buttigieg/Klobuchar vote came to just under 39%. Good luck converting those voters to Sanders voters after Biden/Buttigieg/ Klobuchar characterized Sanders as a wacky socialist who does not know or does not care about the price tag for his many programs.

Still worse for Democrats is that Trump is enjoying the highest approval ratings of his presidency. Gallup recently said: "President Donald Trump's job approval rating has risen to 49%, his highest in Gallup polling since he took office in 2017. ... Trump's approval approval ratings of his presidency. Gallup recently said: "President in Gallup polling since he took office in 2017. ... Trump's approval rating has risen because of higher ratings among both Republicans and independents. His 94% approval rating among Republicans is up six percentage points from early January and is three points higher than his previous best among his fellow partisans. The 42% approval rating among independents is up five points, and ties three other polls as his best among that group. Democratic approval is 7%, down slightly from 10%."

Former vice president and former front-runner Joe Biden is betting his flailing candidacy on doing well in the upcoming South Carolina primary. But Biden, whose front-runner status has been

This leaves Amy Klobuchar as last Democratic moderate standing. But the passion is with the surging Bernie Sanders. All signs, at this juncture, suggest that Republicans in November will party like it's 1972

How hospitals companies scam us

By Jim Hightower

Lyndon Johnson had a saying about special interests trying to get his support to pass some blatantly self-serving legislation: "They can't make chicken salad out of chicken (bleep)!

Yet chicken (bleep) is all that the corporate health complex has to work with as it frantically tries to defend its current system of mass malpractice. After all, as most Americans have learned the hard way, profiteering insurance giants, Big Pharma, and hospital chains grossly overcharge us while constantly trying to shortchange — or outright deny — care to millions of our families.

So, unable to win public support on their own merit, the corporatists and their hired political hacks are going all out to continue their gouging and keep control of America's dysfunctional system. They're now running a multimillion-dollar PR and lobbying campaign of lies to trash and kill all reforms that would deliver quality, comprehensive care to everyone, at far less cost than they can deliver.

Masquerading as a "Partnership for America's Health Care Future," the profiteers warn ominously that such reforms as Medicare for All or a public option for health insurance would take away people's "choice" and our "control" over health care.

Hello: we presently have no choice or control.

Our "care" is managed by a handful of insurance, drug, and hospital monopolists whose primary objective is not improving our health, but feathering their own cushy nests. And the undeniable, ugly truth is that they can only continue ripping us off by killing real reform.

That's one reason the American Medical Association and others are dropping out of the Partnership's political front. Honest health care practitioners no longer believe it's in their best interest — or the public's — to be part of its chicken (bleep) PR campaign.

Dear Editor:

After reading that USC is offering free tuition to students of families making less than $80,000 per year, I thought how wonderful that generous endowments by the rich can make this possible and how much better that Mike Bloomberg, a Democratic candidate worth $56.7 billion, donate to the college and universities instead of spending over $200 million on campaigning for the Democratic nominee to defeat President Trump.

Bloomberg, with his stoic demeanor, hate and jealousy towards Trump, will never do so even if he spent a billion of his dollars.

Sadly, the number one item on the agenda of Bloomberg as well as all the other Democratic candidates is to defeat Trump and, with the exception of Biden and maybe Bloomberg, the second item is to promote socialism.

I find it difficult to see how these want-to-be presidents with their agenda of tearing down our freedoms, destroying our capitalist society, eliminating choices in healthcare, and giving government control of every aspect of our lives can appeal to most Americans.

New Way Forward Act

Dear Editor:

I'm wondering how many have heard of the New Way Forward Act HR 5383.Please look it up on your computer. I just heard of it on Tucker Carlson's TV program. He could hardly believe it and neither can I.

This bill will bring back to the U.S. the illegals who have served jail or prison terms in the U.S. and returned to their country. It is estimated this will cost the U.S. taxpayers approximately $1 billion. I think I'm safe in saying that just because they have served their time doesn't mean they will not repeat and do another crime when brought back.

California has already downgraded some felonies to misdemeanors and some misdemeanors have been released early. Some of the felons are MS13 gang members, child molesters, sexual predators, robbers and other serious crimes. By the way, what happened to the ones who are responsible for the murder of Downey police officer Ricky Galvez?

I'm wondering where they will live, since we see thousands in California sleeping in the streets and, of course, they will have to have food stamps. Even if they find a job, the employers can not legally ask if they have been incarcerated.

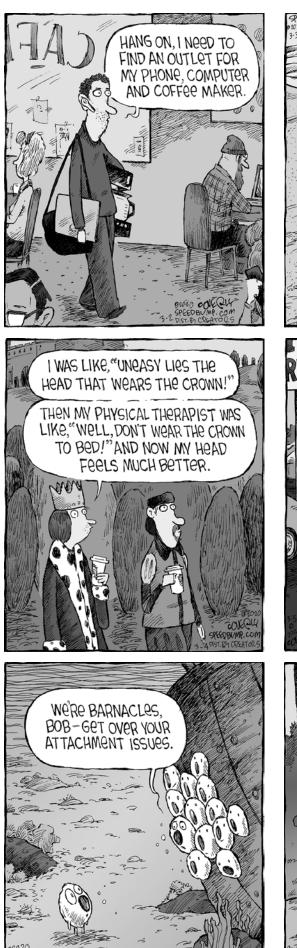

Does it strike anyone as strange that New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles as the worst places to live? I just read that about 80,000 people left California in 1998. Or that all these cities are the highest taxed? Or that all these cities are controlled by Democrats? One would think that constituents would wise up and maybe try having some Republican leadership. They may not be better, but what would it hurt to try?

I'm hoping after reading this that those who care about the U.S. will call (866) 220-0044 in D.C. and ask for Rep. Lucille Roybal-Allard's office. Her California phone number is (323) 721-8790. Tell her to vote "no," we don't need anymore lawbreakers in California.

Tony Award winner 'Mame' coming to Long Beach

LONG BEACH - Three-time lifestyle. Tony Award-winning musical "Mame" begins a three-week run at the Carpenter Performing Arts Center later this month.

Based on the novel "Auntie Mame" by Patrick Dennis and the play "Auntie Mame" by Mame loses her fortune in the Wall Street Crash of 1929 and tries her hand at a number of jobs with comically disastrous results but perseveres with good humor and an irrepressible sense of style.

comedy from Angela Corza, Luis Noriega, David Mendez C., Jake Leos, Charlie Lopez, Zhivago Blea (as seen on Gabriel Iglesias' "Stand Up Revolution") and headliner Jerry Garcia (HBO Latino).

The show is hosted by Ryan Radusinovic.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the show starts at 7. This show is for ages 21 and older.

Free tickets are available on Eventbrite. Baja's Grill and Lounge is located at 7931 Firestone Blvd.

Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, "Mame" is presented by Musical Theatre West and lavishly delivers one of theater's all-time great heroines in a brassy, tuneful, hilarious and touching fashion.

Mame Dennis is a well-todo eccentric living in New York at the height of the Roaring Twenties when she receives a "wonderful present" - her 10-year old orphan nephew, Patrick.

As she teaches him to be a "three dimensional" fellow, Patrick later must rescue his aunt from the trap of a shallow

One of Jerry Herman's most celebrated scores, the production features the classics "Mame," "Open a New Window," "If He Walked Into My Life," and "We Need a Little Christmas."

The adventures of Mame are as exciting as the character herself - first as a book, to a dramatic play, Broadway sensation, and film. A triumphant success in literature and on the dramatic stage, Jerry Herman, Lawrence, and Lee adapted the story into a Broadway musical.

The show opened on Broadway in 1966 and starred a relatively unknown Angela Lansbury to the musical stage, earning her the first of five Tony Awards. The show earned eight Tony nominations and brought home three coveted trophies.

Lucille Ball stepped into the iconic character's shoes for the 1974 film adaptation, bringing a world-wide audience into the world of Mame.

"Mame" will be presented March 27 through April 12. Tickets start at $20 and can be purchased online at musical.org or by calling (562) 856-1999.

POETRY MATTERS

The Present

The cost of flight is landing. On this warm winter day in the southwest, down here on the edge of the border I want to go to France where we all came from where the Occident was born near the ancient caves near Lascaux. At home I'm only sitting on the lip of this black hole, a well that descends to the center of the earth. With a big telescope aimed straight down I see a red dot of fire and hear the beast howling. My back is suppurating with disease, the heart lurches left and right, the brain sings its ditties. Everywhere blank white movies wait to be seen. The skylark dove within inches of the rocks before it stopped and rose again. God's toes are buried deep in the earth. He's ready to run. But where?

Jim Harrison, Poetry, November 2012

Writing about his poetry, Harrison says his process is "unintellectual, wild, and elemental." "What I strive for is rhythm," he says. Born in Grayling, Michigan, he spent his last unrecalcitrant years in Patagonia, Arizona. Poetry Maters is curated by Lorine Parks.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. All checks payable to Prestige Default Services. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. ## Downey real estate broker earns customer satisfaction award

DOWNEY - Downey real estate broker Steve Roberson has been awarded Century 21's Quality Service Pinnacle Producer Award in recognition of his ongoing commitment to service.

"The Quality Service Pinnacle Producer Award is an integral part of our brand's commitment to excellence and recognizes Steve's dedication to making each and every client interaction a positive one," said Mike Miedler, chief executive officer of Century 21 Real Estate LLC.

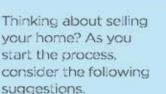

The annual award is based on results from the Century 21 Quality Service Survey which is emailed to consumers immediately after the purchase or sale of a home.

To earn the Quality Service Pinnacle Producer Award, an agent must receive completed customer surveys for at least 50 percent of their transactions surveyed from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, with an average survey score of at least 95 percent or better for two consecutive years.

"Steve provides his clients with knowledge and advice related to their real estate transaction and offers them confidence during what may be the most significant purchase of a lifetime," said Eli Tene, broker/owner of Century 21 Peak.

Roberson will receive a customized glass trophy, in addition to being recognized at the Century 21 Global Conference.

Replacing old appliances and fixtures and decluttering your home will make it more attractive to buyers and potentially increase the value. View these updates as an investment, not an expense
